FUTURE OUTLOOK

As per the forecast of Department of Agriculture as well as Indian Sugar Mills Association, there is an increase in planting of sugarcane and hence sugarcane crushing for the next season is expected to be higher than the current season. The Union Government's recent decision to allow sugar export without quantitative restrictions would facilitate clearing up of inventory as well as stabilizing the domestic sugar price at reasonable levels.

India has tremendous renewable energy potential and the demand for biomass based green power sector is likely to grow exponentially. Thus, with the increase in cane crushing & hence bagasse availability, our cogeneration can optimize power generation and contribute to our profitability.

Recently, Government of Tamilnadu has announced its participation in the ethanol blending programme thereby allowing resumption of ethanol production in sugar mills. Your company with its new addition to production capacity sees a good potential in the ethanol production. By maintaining a proper product mix of alcohol for sale to potable, industrial & blending sector, your company would strive to derive the optimum realization.

Overall, with the outlook remaining positive, your company is committed to bettering the performance year after year and confident of improving the profitability.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Industry Scenario and Development

World Sugar Production for 2011-12 has reached record levels thanks to improving crop outlook for Brazil and a continued supply of exportable surplus sugar from Thailand and India.

The quarterly market outlook of February, 2012 published by International Sugar Organisation indicates that after two years of a large statistical deficit and one season of balanced sugar production and consumption, the world sugar economy has a global surplus which may rise beyond 6 million tons. Tentative projections suggest that the world sugar balance will continue to remain in surplus in 2012-13 also.

Raw sugar prices in New York in the last week of April 2012 plunged to 20.5 cents, hitting an 11-month low. White sugar is currently trading around $ 570 and raw sugar at 20.9 cents. Raw sugar prices are forecast at around 22 cents during the second quarter during the Brazilian centre south harvest and at around 24 cents at the end of 2012. White sugar is forecast at around $600 during the second quarter and around the same at the end of 2012. Weather patterns could alter this price forecast. Another major factor determining sugar prices during 2012 will be the price of ethanol and as a consequence the decisions by Brazilian mills to divert cane to ethanol production.

In India, as per Indian Sugar Mills Association (ISMA) report, the sugar production upto the end of April, 2012 for the current sugar season is 251 lakh tons. This is almost 25 lakh tons more than the production upto the end of April, 2011 last year. Most of the increase has been contributed by Uttar Pradesh, which has seen an increase of almost 11 lakh tons, Maharashtra where the increase is about 5 lakh tons, Karnataka where the increase is almost 3 lakh tons and Tamilnadu where the sugar production is more by almost 4 lakh tons as compared to last year.

ISMA is absolutely certain that its earlier sugar production estimate of 260 lakh tons will be achieved. The balance 9 lakh tons beyond the 251 lakh tons already produced would come largely from Tamilnadu which is expected to still produce about 6.5 lakh tons between May and September in the current season, Maharashtra (2 lakh tons) and Karnataka (1 lakh ton).

As per press release of the Department of Agriculture, sugarcane for the next sugar season has been planted in 44.12 lakh hectare as compared to 43.23 lakh hectare last year on the corresponding period, which is 2% higher. Therefore, ISMA is quite certain that production in ensuing season 2012-13 starting from 1st October will be higher than the domestic consumption and India will continue to export sugar third year in a row.

An intense industry lobby has evoked a positive response from the Government with permission for export of 2 million tons since the beginning of this year. Though this export was linked to production numbers of each sugar factory, regular exporting factories were able to capitalize the tradability of sugar export entitlement. The Government had also released an additional 1 million ton of export under this scheme but then on a national review, had thought fit to declare sugar export under Open General Licence (OGL) without quantitative restrictions, considering the comfortable position of domestic production and consumption.

The export of sugar helped in stabilizing the domestic price realization which hovered around ₹ 27,000/- per ton level throughout major part of the year 2011-12. Though international sugar prices have been depressed during the last quarter, the weakness of rupee has compensated the lower margins.

During the year, Government of Tamilnadu has hiked the SAP from ₹ 1,900/- per ton to ₹ 2,000/- per ton (linked to 9.5% recovery) plus a transport cost of ₹ 100/- per ton for the 2011-12 sugar season.

On the ethanol front, the outlook for global fuel ethanol production is forecast to rebound in 2012 after some sluggishness. Brazil and the USA will continue to be the main drivers. The ethanol programme in India has been sustained with the participation of the major sugar producing States. Tamilnadu had been kept out of the Ethanol supply programme due to focus of the State Government on ensuring availability of alcohol to the potable sector. Constant interaction by State Industry Associations with the Government has yielded positive results with the Government now being convinced that there is adequate molasses production and distillation capacity available in the State to ensure alcohol supply to both potable and ethanol sector. This ensures an alternative user for alcohol and will add to the profitability of the industry.

Risks and concerns

Your company continues to review and manage the risks emanating from such a dynamic environment. The management of the company reviews and monitors risks at periodic intervals. The major risks faced by the industry include sugarcane availability, price realization and regulatory control by Government, financial liquidity, amongst others.

Sugarcane availability

Sugarcane is the main raw material in sugar mills. Sugarcane cultivation is monsoon dependent. Hence it becomes unpredictable in adverse climatic conditions. Similarly other factors like scarcity of harvest labour, lower sugarcane realisations or cane payment arrears to growers, availability of attractive competitive/alternate crops will have a direct impact on cane availability and affect our business.

Risk Mitigation: The Company has mitigated this risk by following:

- Continuous yield improvement activities to obtain a better quality cane leading to a better recovery
- Close monitoring of cane development activities, which includes supply of good quality seeds, fertilisers and manure, among others.
- Promoting drip irrigation
- Careful monitoring of cane planting and harvesting schedule.
- Introduction of mechanical harvesters
- Timely cane payment to farmers and maintaining good relationship with them

Sugar price realisation risk

Being cyclical in nature, sugar price remains volatile and realisations get adversely affected during a downturn. Coupled with this, higher cane price affects profitability.

Risk mitigation: To address the challenge of cyclical in the sugar business, the Company has adopted an integrated business model manufacturing sugar and also producing alcohol and cogenerating power from the sugarcane residue viz., molasses and bagasse. While Unit I (Varadarajnagar) is already an integrated complex, we have now made Unit II (Mundiyampakkam) and Unit III (Semmedu) also integrated complexes with the commissioning of a state of the art multi-pressure alcohol distillation plant.

The Company is also focusing on improving direct sales to institutional buyers to lock down on prices, thereby balancing the volatility of the market.

Regulatory risk

The sugar industry is closely regulated by both central and state governments by way of reservation of cane area, fixing sugarcane price, monthly release order mechanism for sugar trade, Levy obligation at a lower price etc.

Risk response: ISMA and South Indian Sugar Mills Association (SISMA) of which the Company is a member are in the process of presenting recommendation for appropriate policy changes to reduce governmental influence in the sugar sector and help decontrol the sugar industry.

Financial liquidity risk

Procurement of funds to meet working capital requirements and the payment of the interest and principal with respect to loans availed. The other associated risk is soaring interest rates.

During the year, the company's working capital was under tremendous stress due to delayed payments from Tamilnadu Electricity Board (TNEB). The financial stress of TNEB is being passed on to its constituent stakeholders and the sugar industry which cogenerates and supplies power to the State Grid, suffers as a consequence.

Risk response: As the Company has a sound credibility with the Banks, the Company has been able to arrange different financing options at economical and better cost of debt.

With the recent increase in power tariff coupled with financial restructuring, TNEB's financial position should improve and hence the company hopes to receive the payments without difficulty.

Internal control systems and their adequacy

The Company has a well-established internal control system in the form of well-documented policies, authorisation guidelines commensurate with the level of responsibility and standard operating procedures, to ensure proper functioning of operations. Moreover there exists an effective internal audit system, commensurate with the requirements of the company.

The Board, Audit Committee and the Management, review the findings and recommendations of the Internal Auditors and take corrective action, wherever necessary. Moreover the Audit Committee periodically interacts with Statutory Auditors and makes continuous assessments of the adequacy and effectiveness of the internal control systems.
