MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS REPORT

Industry Structure & Developments

Outsourcing IT operations continues to dominate the IT sector as the most attractive means of reducing investment in the internal IT function. Driven largely by the ease of calculation and almost immediate ROI the model of outsourced infrastructure management is one easily conveyed to the C suite, more so than alternative solutions which ROI may take many times longer to achieve comparable results.

The growth of RIM services over the last five years has been fueled by a maturing customer base becoming more familiar (and comfortable) with low cost off shore delivery models; A maturing of the service providers responding to the needs of customers; the reliability and connectivity improvements; the management and automation tools in the market; and the overarching pressures of business in the economic downturn that forces organization to reduce costs.

As a result of this high growth, new companies continue to enter the RIM space. Competition is heating up and as a result the market is becoming more price-sensitive. It is becoming a buyer's market with the buyer having more negotiating power.

As a result existing organizations seeking to continue to be successful will have to focus away from cost and more on differentiation and positioning. Business value is a core message that needs to be communicated in order to gain additional market share.

Because of this current lack of differentiation from RIM service providers, leaders in RIM organizations will have to develop key brand and positioning messages that position their offerings based on engagement approach, adding additional value through consulting and automation technologies, cloud utilization, and through clear expertise and reference-able credential based marketing strategies. Those companies able to demonstrate a wide platform of skills and expertise across multiple technology platforms will also prosper.

In addition, offshore cost savings have become less advantageous, as wages and operating costs have been rising rapidly in the business and manufacturing centers of China and India. Leading offshore services providers have been opening offices and making acquisitions in America and Europe-the locales of some of their leading customers, as offshore firms become more global and mature in nature. In many cases, performance and customer satisfaction are just as important as cost. (Plunkett Research 2012)

Ultimately RIM services are moving away from being thought of as a tactical way for companies to save money or initiate new capabilities to becoming an integral part of the corporate strategic agenda.

In addition in the environment of low risk strategies more companies reject the investment in new systems or operations that might anchor them to a particular geography, technology, or rigid supply chain, instead preferring to select the low risk option of outsourcing to a domain expert.

This also allows organizations to diversify their talent base to multiple geographies to hedge their bets against influences in specific geographies such as natural disasters, as seen recently in Japan or economic turmoil experienced in Europe.

Industry Verticals

'The majority of Indian RIM providers generate the majority of their revenue from five vertical markets: Banking, financial services and insurance, communications, media and services, and manufacturing' (Gartner 2012)

Service Offering Focus

Of the industry segments identified above, Data Center Management Services is the highest revenue generator in the RIM space. This is widely perceived to be because of a light activity need in data centers coupled with few on site staff that means monitoring and management of Data Centers is an optimum area for remote services delivery. Following Data Center, Help Desk Services comes in second with networking services coming in third position.

Competitive Landscape

Outsourcing will be an approximately $480 billion global industry in 2012, with significant emphasis on three broad areas: 1) logistics, sourcing and distribution services; 2) information technology services, including the creation of software and the management of computer centers; and 3) business process outsourcing (BPO) areas such as call centers, financial transaction processing and human resources management. (Plunkett Research 2012)

RIM Top Five Indian Outsourcing Companies: Wipro, TCS, Cognizant, HCL Technologies, Infosys (Gartner 2012)

Outlook

RIM services are a high-growth service line within the infrastructure services market. The barriers to entry to this market are not significantly high, attracting a considerable number of new entrants. This creates a cluttered, highly competitive service provider landscape.

In the current scenario, the approach taken by most India-based providers is still labor intensive, with cost take out and efficiency being the key value propositions. As the industry matures, vendors will need to take a more sophisticated approach.

As a result of continued growth and service offerings / client base expansion, vendors have less power. The potential to redress the balance of that control rests on the ability of RIM vendors to evolve their services offerings to more holistic infrastructure offerings. Offering efficient, high-quality, low-cost services that provide business value will continue to be the key tenet of their growth path.

IT Spending

Gartner Says Worldwide IT Spending on Pace to Surpass $3.6 Trillion in 2012 a 3 percent increase from 2011 spending of $3.5 trillion. While the challenges facing global economic growth persist - the Eurozone crisis, weaker US recovery, and a slowdown in China - the outlook has at least stabilized," said Richard Gordon, research vice president at Gartner. "There has been little change in either business confidence or consumer sentiment in the past quarter, so the short-term outlook is for continued caution in IT spending."

Demand for consulting services is expected to remain high due to the complexity of environments for global business and technology leaders. Gartner analysts said consulting itself is becoming increasingly technology-based with the rise of analytics and big data, having deep implications on the future of consulting services.

Gartner's current U.S. dollar growth forecast for overall global IT spending in 2012 has been revised up slightly from 2.5% last quarter to 3.0% now. In constant U.S. dollar, forecast growth for overall IT spending in 2012 is unchanged at 5.2%.

Vertical Market Spend:

GSS InfoTech's core markets remain strong in the commercial sector, while government spending is depicted as the "outlier", due to political influence and public opinion, outsourcing to offshore organizations is typically not an option for most public sector organizations. One caveat to this statement is that, as budgets are reduced and the continuing trend to "do-more-with-less" exacerbates, because of GSS Infotech's strong footprint in North America in the coming years it may prove to be advantageous.

Enterprise IT Spending Forecast, 1Q12 Update: Government Spending is the Outlier

North America continues to provide the greatest opportunity in the enterprise space with consistent IT spending. European spending is trending through 2016 to decrease while APAC and south american nations, although smaller markets are anticipated to see the highest growth rates.

The most recent spending forecast reflects a resurgent consulting and outsourcing sector through 2011. Through 2012 Gartner predicts 3 infrastructure growth areas. Security, Storage Management and Virtualized infrastructures.

The precursor to enterprise cloud enablement and IT-as-a-service, virtualization technologies is anticipated to grow unabated. VMware, a platinum partner of GSS Infotech, recent acquisition of Network virtualization startup Nicira for $1.2B reinforces this position. Combined with the complimentary storage architecture technologies that GSS Infotech, New York provides means that GSS Infotech is positioned well to take advantage of the continued growth in this sector.

Software Spending Forecast, 2Q12 Update: Infrastructure & Application Summary

($B)	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
2Q12 update	289.4	281.1	300.8	320.9	342.4	365.1
1Q12 update	286.8	280.1	299.1	318.9	339.4	361.5

- 2012 growth rate lowered from 5.0% to 4.3%, due to increased concern around Eurozone crisis

 - Security
 - Virtualization Infrastructure
 - Storage Management
- Application 2012 growth areas:

The real accelerated growth in IT spending continues to be IT outsourcing as organizations continue to look for more efficient methods of technology delivery in the enterprise. While Hardware support is predicted to decline GSS Infotech does not anticipate that this will existing support offerings.

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared on the following basis:

GSS INFOTECH LIMITED

1.2 Significant Accounting Policies :

a) Basis of Preparation of Financial Statements

The financial statements are prepared in accordance with Indian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) under the historical cost convention on the accrual basis. GAAP comprises mandatory accounting standards notified under Companies Act, 1956, accounting standards issued by Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI), and also the guidelines issued by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI).

Management evaluates all recently issued or revised accounting standards on an ongoing basis.

b) Use of Estimates:

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP requires management to make judgments, estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of revenues, expenses, assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent liabilities at the end of the reporting period. Although these estimates are based on the management's best knowledge of current events and actions, uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in the outcomes requiring a material judgment to the carrying amounts of assets or liabilities in future periods. Examples of such estimates include provision for doubtful debts, future obligations under employee retirement benefit plans, income taxes, and the useful lives of fixed assets and intangible assets.

c) Revenue recognition:

Revenue from Software Development on fixed-price, fixed time frame contracts, where there is no uncertainty as to the measurement or collectability of consideration is recognized as per the percentage of completion method. On time and material contracts, revenue is recognized as the related services are rendered. Provision for estimated losses, if any, on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which such losses become probable based on the current estimates. Annual technical services revenue and revenue from fixed price maintenance contracts are recognized proportionately over the period in which services are rendered. Revenue from the sale of user licenses for software applications is recognized on transfer of the title in the user license, except multiple element contracts, where revenue is recognized as per the percentage of completion method.

Profit on sale of investments is recorded on transfer of title from the company and is determined as the difference between the sales price and the carrying value of the investment. Dividend income is recognised where the company's right to receive dividend is established. Interest and Other Income is recognised on accrual basis.

d) Expenditure and provisions:

All items of expenditure are accounted on accrual basis. Provisions are made for all known losses and liabilities, which involves substantial degree of estimation in measurement and when there is present obligation as a result of past events and it is probable that there will be an outflow of resources.

Fixed assets are stated at cost, net of accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. All costs, directly attributable to bringing the asset to the present condition for its intended use of assets, are capitalized.

The carrying amount of assets are being tested on annual basis for impairment so as to determine the provision required for impairment loss, if any, or for reversal of the provision, if any required on account of impairment loss recognized in previous periods.
